114 Firemen (Women, Too) Complete Two-Day Training

THE continuous growth of the Monroe County Firemen's Assn. fire school was noted yesterday at the close of the final session in Tobyhanna.

Some 114 fire students, which included women as well as men, were processed during the two-day program. Last year the school instructed 90 entries.

The Coolbaugh Township Fire Co. at Tobyhanna was the host company. The company's auxiliary provided food for the fire members during the Saturday and Sunday instructions.

An official spokesman for the association said the group is pleased in the continuous success it has achieved. Sponsored by the Monroe County Commissioners, the association for the first time this year invited industry, resort, homeowners, and anyone else interested to participate in the schooling.

Most of the fire companies involved were from Monroe County but many others also were in on the instructions.

Officers for 1960-61 term are Glenn Snyder, president; Charles Degen, vice-president; and S. B. Close, secretary-treasurer.

On the thorny issue of using federal funds to build classrooms and pay teachers' salaries, however, Nixon took a stand considerably short of that of Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic opponent in the presidential campaign.

In the third of a series of "position papers," outlining his views on various national issues, Nixon said federal funds should be used to help build new public schools, and to help local school districts pay off bonded debt already incurred for school construction. The money thus freed, he said, could be used to raise teachers' salaries.

He said it is imperative that teachers' salaries be raised, but added, "at the same time, we must avoid the danger of rigid federal control over what is taught in our public schools."

The vice president called for a national scholarship program, based on need and competitive examinations. The program would be administered by the states, and the states would share in the costs on the basis of "relative ability to pay." The scholarships "can be as large as $1,000 a year," Nixon said.

Extension and expansion of the college student loan program, which is scheduled to expire next June 30.

Continued government assistance to the "under-impacted" areas, while federal activities put a special burden on the schools, while, at the same time, taking land and property off the local tax rolls.

A continued federal program of low-cost loans to colleges and universities for dormitory construction, "greatly expanded into a program of both loans and matching grants for classrooms and laboratories and libraries as well."

Cleveland Cheers Kennedy; Nixon Backs Education Aid

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The biggest, wildest crowd of his campaign for the presidency greeted John F. Kennedy here Sunday and cheered his charge that the "Republican brand of prosperity" has caught millions of Americans in a cost-of-living squeeze.

Police Traffic Commissioner James B. Halloran estimated that 118,000 people greeted Kennedy at a Democratic rally in Euclid Beach Park.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Halloran of the tribute paid the Democratic presidential nominee. He, like veteran Cleveland newsmen, said it was the greatest turnout since former President Franklin D. Roosevelt's reception here in 1937.

The event was the annual steer roast of the Cuyahoga County Democrats.

Kennedy told them the Republicans have ignored their 1952 campaign promises to reduce living costs. The resulting inflation, he said, "hurts most of all those whom the Republican brand of prosperity has left far behind."

"The greatest influx of Communist leaders in history is in New York," Kennedy said, "because they think that time is moving in their direction."

The Massachusetts Senator defied the criticisms voiced by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican rival, who has accused the senator of harming America's cause by pointing to defense shortcomings and demanding greater efforts on the military and economic fronts.

Ike In Philly Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Eisenhower makes his first visit to Philadelphia in nearly four years Monday. It will be a two-hour trip in which he will make two addresses and is expected to be hailed by several hundred thousand persons on a motorcade into center city.

Pirates, Yankees Clinch Pennants

PITTSBURGH (AP)—This Steel City blew its top Sunday night! A crowd, described by Pittsburgh police as the largest ever to assemble in the downtown area, whooped it up to celebrate the Pirates' first National League pennant since 1927.

The first two games of the Series will be played in Pittsburgh Oct. 5 and 6, the third, fourth and fifth, if necessary, in New York Oct. 8, 9 and 10.

Shortly after the Pirates had clinched the flag, the crowd began to gather at Gateway Plaza. By 10 p.m., Assistant Police Superintendent Lawrence J. Maloney said:

"It looks like we've got one hundred thousand on hand. This is absolutely terrific. The only time

I saw anything resembling this was several years ago when the late President Roosevelt was here. But even so, this crowd is bigger than the ones he drew."

The Pirates were delayed arriving because of a victory celebration of their own in Milwaukee. A warm fall night helped bring out the huge crowd. There were girls in shorts, men in straw hats, youngsters and even some elderly women waving Buc pennants.

A local station televised the proceedings. The throng was entertained by local personalities while awaiting the teams arrival. Pirate wives were assembled to meet their victorious husbands.

All of Pittsburgh's top officials were present on a reviewing stand set up in the heart of the downtown area.

Wearing a broad grin and waving his hat to the crowd was Ben Fairless, a retired board chairman of U. S. Steel Corp.

"I have waited a long time for this," said Fairless. "This is a great thing for baseball and for Pittsburgh."

An unidentified woman, told the Pirates might not arrive until midnight or later, said:

"We don't mind waiting. We've waited 33 years for a pennant and this is fun."

BOSTON (AP)—Like true professionals, the New York Yankees were almost subdued Sunday as they celebrated their 10th American League pennant in the last dozen years.

They trooped into their dressing room almost quietly.

There were a few yips and whoops and all wore grins that wouldn't come off.

Loudest shriek came from Bob Cerv who was replaced in left field late in the game.

He prowled the dressing room in his complete field uniform, even his cap, striding up and down as the Red Sox came within one run of a tie in the last of the ninth inning.

When the radio announcer reported Pete Runnel had fouled out to end the game, adding, "The Yankees win," Cerv shouted "We win. We win."

Dale Long, who pinch hit in the ninth and almost drove a homer into a stiff wind, whistled through his fingers, shouting, "That's it. That's it."

Then the others began piling in. "Who?" said one and grabbed a handful of bottled drinks for his mates. "Here, celebrate," he said.

Then a bit of skylarking began. An unidentified player sneaked up behind Hector Lopez and poured beer over his head.

Somebody pulled Roger Maris' shirt over his head and another poured beer over Maris.

Maris and Lopez fled into the showers.

Casey Stengel, the New York manager, meanwhile held court in the office provided visiting managers.

He hugged for photographers, accepted the congratulations of Joe Cronin, league president, who gave Casey a bear hug.

Stengel answered the telephone to accept congratulations from Tom Yawkey, Red Sox owner, and after that call Stengel's eyes were wet.

"There's a fine gentleman," he said. "He was always nice to me and I've been nice to him once, twice, seven, eight times . . . there's some guys in baseball I'd trim the first time, if I could."

What about Pittsburgh, a newsman asked.

"Heck, I can't worry about Pittsburgh yet," he said. "We're on a winning streak and I hope it continues through the (World) Series. That's about all I can say about Pittsburgh now."

U.N. Heading Into Critical Week

Reds Ready To Launch Space Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Sunday his country is ready to launch a man into space but has not attempted it yet.

Khrushchev made the comment at the Soviet country estate at Glen Cove, Long Island, where he spent the weekend. He returned to the city in a motorcade that was booed by knots of people waving American flags along his route.

The premier said "it is difficult to say" just when the Soviet Union will launch its first space man "but we are prepared." He said it is up to Soviet scientists to decide the launching date.

Khrushchev also declared that unless the United Nations is reorganized as he wants it, the world "shall continue to be in a state of cold war."

Nehru Talks

He made these statements at two separate, lengthy press conferences during a busy day winding up his weekend at the luxurious Soviet mansion in Glen Cove.

Then he headed back to New York for an evening date with India's Prime Minister Nehru, just arrived for the U.N. General Assembly meeting.

Just before departing on the 30-mile return trip to Manhattan, Khrushchev met at his suburban residence with another neutralist chief, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

Nkrumah said after their 14-hour huddle that "there have been arguments both ways" between the two but "we are agreed that there will be peace in the world."

The African leader said he agreed with some, but not all of Khrushchev's far-reaching plan to supplant Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld with three secretaries-general. Under Khrushchev's proposal, one secretary-general would represent the Western nations, one would represent the Communist bloc and one would represent the neutrals.

The Kremlin boss said that without this reshuffling of the United Nations "there will be no normal relations" between coun-

Rocket Engine Misfires

U. S. Moon Shot Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Rocket engine failure Sunday ruined an American bid to be first to place a space craft in orbit around the moon.

Instead of winging "nearly a quarter-million miles to the moon and giving the United States a significant boost in its space race with the Soviet Union, Pioneer VI probably burned up in the earth's atmosphere after a flight of a few thousand miles. With it went an estimated $9 to $10 million in costs.

Dr. Auloph Thiel of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration told newsmen it was the 5,000-pound second-stage engine of the three-stage Atlas-Able launching rocket that malfunctioned. He said it "ignited but burned in an abnormal fashion and did not burn its normal time of 110 seconds."

Thiel said it was unlikely the third stage fired at all and added, "If it did, it would have been so far off trajectory that it would have plunged back into the earth's atmosphere."

He guessed that the upper stage of the rocket with the 287-pound, instrument-packed space craft in its nose probably met fiery destruction in the atmosphere somewhere over the Indian Ocean.

Although keenly disappointed at this failure—especially since it came with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in this country—NASA will not abandon the moon satellite project.

Lawrence Hogarth, NASA project manager, said a backup rocket and payload are available to repeat the launching. He did not say when but other officials said it might come in two or three months. It was explained that analysis of what happened this time would determine the time for the next try.

Hogarth estimated the investment in Pioneer VI, in equipment and manpower, at $9 to $10 million.

First announcement of failure came an hour and eight minutes after the successful liftoff.

The first stage of the huge Atlas-Able rocket fired satisfactorily at 10:13 a.m. and the missile quickly disappeared into the clouds.

Half an hour later, minutes before the scheduled firing times for ignition of second- and third-stage engines, newsmen were told "we do not have any positive information" on those firings.

This announcement by NASA came a few minutes after the big tracking station at Jodrell Bank, England, had told newsmen all three stages had fired successfully.

There was no immediate explanation of this conflict of reports. But several minutes after its first announcement it appeared that the huge Jodrell Bank telescope had not picked up the Pioneer VI rocket. And one spokesman said, "It doesn't look so good."

Still later, Prof. Bernard Lovell, director of the tracking telescope said reports from the United States indicated something went wrong with the third-stage firing making it veer 6 degrees off its projected trajectory.

The satellite was aimed at a Tuesday night rendezvous with the moon after a 240,000-mile journey estimated to require 62 hours.

The Soviet Union currently leads in lunar exploration. Last year it snatched a rocket into the moon and flung a picture-taking satellite into a wide earth orbit that carried it around the moon.

Nixon-Kennedy 'Debate' Scheduled For 9:30 P.M.

CHICAGO (AP)—Television experts Sunday readied the arena where the two presidential candidates will meet face-to-face Monday night in the first of the "great debates" before millions of TV viewers.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, and Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy will face the cameras at 9:30 p.m. EDT in a studio once used for wrestling matches.

Both planned to be in Chicago Sunday night, Nixon coming from Washington, and Kennedy returning from Cleveland, where he addressed a Democratic rally Sunday.

Both will warm up for the hour-long TV appearance with speeches before the United Brotherhood of Carpenters Monday, Kennedy in the afternoon.

Then they will repair to Columbia Broadcasting System studios on the North Side, in a building that once was a riding club, later a sports arena. Private offices have been prepared for each.

All major radio and television networks plan to carry the program.

Technical and security arrangements for the debate are lavish, with emphasis on a minimum of distraction for the stars of the show.

The "debate" label—a ghost of the great debates a century ago between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas—is a misnomer, for Kennedy and Nixon won't debate in the grand manner of exchanging verbal volleys.

Kennedy will open the session with an eight-minute discussion of the topic—domestic policy. Nixon then will get equal time. A panel of television newsmen—newspapermen were barred, despite protests from both the Nixon and Kennedy camps—will direct questions to one of the candidates. He'll get three minutes to reply to each question. Then his opponent will get 1½ minutes to comment on the question and answer.

When only six minutes remain, each candidate will take over for a three-minute summary.

The "great debates" will continue Oct. 7 from New York; Oct. 13 on a split screen with Kennedy in New York, Nixon in Los Angeles, and Oct. 21 from New York.

"Ask Hammarskjöld."

In an informal news conference he virtually confirmed the Western position. He said each of the three men on the secretariat should have veto power over U.N. action. This would enable the representative of the Soviet countries to kill any proposal from the neutral or Western representative.

Macmillan was expected to demonstrate strongly Britain's solidarity with the United States against the strong Soviet campaign aimed at belittling the West and wooing the support of the Asian and African nations.

Meeting With Ike

He was silent upon his departure from London for New York but diplomatic sources speculated he will make an effort to restore minimum contacts looking toward an eventual resumption of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other issues.

Macmillan meets with President Eisenhower in New York Tuesday to go over points in the speech the British leader will make in the assembly on Thursday. Later he is expected to see Thelma Boy.

Eisenhower is reported dismayed at the continuing bitterness of Khrushchev's language and is in no mood to even listen to suggestions that he get together with the Soviet leader.

Top Eisenhower aides view Khrushchev's threat to block disarmament until the United Nations is revamped to suit him as a cynical maneuver to frighten war-jittery countries into backing the Soviet proposals.

Eisenhower is banking heavily on the prospect his talks with Nehru and Nasser will help win the diplomatic battle against Khrushchev and his Communist allies.

The backing of neutrals like India, the U.A.R. and Yugoslavia, it is believed, will be decisive in the climactic vote now shaping up within the 96-nation U.N. General Assembly on Khrushchev's demands that the United Nations be moved away from the United States and that its organizational setup be drastically revised.

Eisenhower is to follow up his meeting with Nehru and Nasser by talking Tuesday morning with Britain's newly arrived Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

A late report from the hospital said their condition was satisfactory and they are expected to be released today.

Pick 'Mushrooms,' Land In Hospital

TWO VICTIMS of food poisoning were rushed to the Monroe County General Hospital last night by the Portland Ambulance.

They were identified by the hospital as Barbara Mullins, 26, and her husband, Albert Mullins, 36, of 3 Shore Drive, Linwood, N.J.

"We had been up around the Pecks Pond area," said Mrs. Mullins to one of the hospital personnel, "and had picked some mushrooms to cook with other food we had with us."

It was on the way home that she and her husband began to feel ill. They had driven as far as Portland and stopped at the home of Dr. George Eichler for treatment.

Dr. Eichler called the Portland ambulance and the husband and wife were rushed to the hospital for immediate treatment.

The couple's two children were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lovric of Mr. Bethel to be cared for until their parents are released from the hospital.

A late report from the hospital said their condition was satisfactory and they are expected to be released today.

The program opened with the group singing the "Star Spangled Banner" following of which Rev. Leone pronounced the invocation. The benediction was delivered by Rev. Scarrone.

Various moods of seriousness and humor were noted as the speakers delivered their remarks.

"I came here because I wanted to be here . . . in celebration of my good friend's (Saveri's) homecoming," Brownell began his talk.

"Another reason for coming is because I live a few blocks from the Russian consulate in New York City and couldn't get much sleep for the past five nights," he continued. "I saw 'fat-fellows' up on balconies," protesters, police, crowds and what not, he said as he told of his departure from New York.

On a more serious note, he said "Communist leaders coming to this country make Americans realize how good it is to be an American." Brownell spoke highly of the work performed by Congressman Walter and wanted it to be known in his (Walter's) own home district.

Walter Speaks

Rep. Walter said it seemed like old home week in "seeing his close friends." The 15th District representative went on to say that he knows of the stiff competition faced by association members and added that competition is stern in all industries.

He illustrated his point by telling how Ronson Lighter Plant, in Delaware Water Gap and other manufacturers had to face competition against the imports of Japanese lighters. He told of how other companies had encountered difficulties and how today only a few American lighter manufacturers have survived.

He went on to say that he was instrumental at the closing of the last session of Congress in gaining a provision for imposing a tax on every lighter that is imported into the U.S.

Association President Saveri told of his visit to the Vatican and his audience with Pope John XXIII. He outlined the various problems involved in gaining the audience, particularly, he said "because I am no high official."

But, he continued, through the efforts of Rep. Walter, he was able to accomplish his trip successfully.

State Loses $28,798 Loan On Industry

HARRISBURG (AP) — State Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin has confirmed the loss by the state of a $28,798 second mortgage loan on a Carbon County industrial plant.

The loss was disclosed first by Auditor Gen. Charles C. Smith in an audit report of the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority for the 1959 fiscal year.

Smith said foreclosure of a loan to the Beaver Meadows Industrial Development Corp. and handling of another loan intended for the Greater Hazleton Community Area New Development Organization Inc. showed the need for PIDA to exercise greater care in handling loans.

Smith Saturday said the authority lost $28,798 on the Beaver Meadows loan. He said PIDA took no action "to protect its investment" after it "was notified by the first mortgage (a bank) of the pending foreclosure."

Plant Failed

Davlin said PIDA had approved a $30,000 second mortgage loan in 1957 for reconstruction of a burned-out apparel plant in Beaver Meadows. A Hazleton bank had advanced $30,000 as a first mortgage and plant employees had put up the remaining $20,000.

The plant failed after 18 months and the bank foreclosed on its mortgage. The state's second mortgage and the employees' loan were wiped out.

Smith criticized what he called the Commerce Department's failure to take title to the plant to protect its equity.

"There was nothing that we could do," Davlin said. "A second mortgage holds an inferior position in the foreclosures."

It was the first loss by the state in the $30 million revolving fund for second mortgage loans under the industrial development program started in 1953.

Deer Season Opens Saturday For Archers

PENNSYLVANIA bow and arrow deer hunters, who last year numbered the highest of any state in the nation, anxiously await Saturday, the opening day of the archers' "hunter's choice" season for the whitetails.

Archers successful in past say they experienced a certain exultation at bringing down a deer through the use of the implement of ancient origin. Many bowhunters have been practicing instinctive shooting on field courses where targets of different sizes and at varying distances simulate situations bowhunters will encounter afield.

Other "stick benders," not so concerned about bagging a deer, will loiter about at a deer crossing or field edge, quite content to enjoy the autumn scenery and observe whatever nature presents while relaxing far from the normal daily routine.

The 1960 bow-deer season, Oct. 1-28 inclusive, is the tenth successive season scheduled for bow and arrow devotees in Pennsylvania. In 1957, the year the first "any deer" season was declared, 55,539 persons purchased a license. During that hunt 1,338 archers reported deer kills.

In 1958 a total of 72,937 persons bought a license for the October 1-28 bow and arrow deer season, and 1,338 deer again were reported taken. Last year 76,767 archers' licenses were sold for the October 3 to 30 season during which 1,409 deer were reported bagged.

To their credit, archery clubs in all parts of the state have conducted hunting clinics at which caution in loosing hunting arrows has been stressed. The bow and arrow deer hunters have posted an exceptional hunting safety record. During the last nine years only one person was struck by an arrow loosed from another archer's bow while deer hunting. But since the archers often wear camouflage clothing and dark face paint, and hands as an aid to stealthy stalking, or to blend with the surroundings, the bowmen are cautioned to make sure it's a deer before speeding an arrow on its way.

Boy Escapes Injury When Hit By Car

POLICE from the Borough of Stroudsburg investigated two accidents Saturday, both on Main St., within minutes of each other. No injuries were reported in either accident.

The first mishap was at 3:03 p.m. on W. Main St. at the Morey School when an automobile swerved to the right in an attempt to miss a boy on a bicycle.

Alvan Langelli, 19, of 25 Garden St., Stroudsburg, was traveling west on Main St. in his car. He told police that Donald Stump, 7, of 24 Stofflet St., Stroudsburg, rode his bicycle across the street from the Chevron Service Station into the path of his car.

Langelli said he applied his brakes and swerved to his right to avoid hitting the boy. He hit the no-parking sign in front of Morey School and did not get stopped in time to miss the boy.

Police took the boy to his home. They said he apparently was uninjured.

Police estimated the damage at $75.

The second accident occurred at 3:25 p.m. at the entrance of the A&P parking lot on Main St., when Miriam Grogg, 43, of Stroudsburg RD, backed into the rear of a car operated by Iona Keiper, 56, of Stroudsburg RD 1.

Police reported that the Keiper car was traveling west on Main St. and had made a left turn into the parking lot when Mrs. Grogg backed from a parking space and hit the left rear fender of the Keiper car.

Police estimated the total damage to both cars at $75.

Allentown Crash Kills Thompson

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Johnny Thompson, 39, was injured fatally Saturday when his racing car crashed through a fence and upset in the feature race at the Allentown Fairgrounds.

Thompson's car raced out of control in the first lap of the 25-lap event on the half mile dirt track. It smashed through 30 feet of the inside fence, overturned and pinned him under the wreckage.

The Boyertown, Pa., driver was one of the nation's better known racers. He placed third in the Indianapolis "500" on Memorial Day 1959, and in past years competed at most of the better tracks.

Thompson had several close calls in recent years. In September, 1959, at Williams Grove, Pa., his car flipped end over end. He escaped serious injury. A year earlier his car tore through a fence at Sacramento much in the fashion of Saturday's accident.

County Produced 5,700 Acres

1959 Corn Crop Worth $479,100

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — Monroe County farmers last year harvested a total of 5,700 acres of corn valued at $479,100, crop production figures of the State Department of Agriculture for the county indicated yesterday. Whether last year's farm crop production records for the county will be exceeded this year will be determined by the fall harvesting now being completed. Of the 5,700 acres of corn harvested in the county in 1959, records of the department show that 4,200 acres were harvested for grain, 1,450 acres for silage and the remainder for grazing and forage.

The average yield per acre for corn harvested for grain was 67.9 bushels—as compared with the statewide average of 62 bushels per acre. Corn harvested for silage rounded out to 11.5 tons per acre which was above the statewide average of 11 tons per acre.

On the wheat production front, Monroe County farmers last year harvested 53,000 bushels from 1,900 acres with an average yield of 27.9 bushels per acre—2.4 per acre above the average for the state as a whole. The wheat farmers of the county produced was valued at $90,600.

Oats produced in the county last year rounded out to 208,100, valued at $154,000, harvested from 4,300 acres. The yield of 48.4 bushels per acre was above the statewide average of 44 bushels.

Barley production stood at 5,200 bushels valued at $5,300 from a crop planted on 300 acres, the department said in rounding out the grain production picture for the county.

Negro Masons Of District Pay Honor To Prince Hall

GIDEON LODGE 145, Free and Accepted Masons (PHA), of Stroudsburg, was host to the Ninth Masonic District Council during observance of Prince Hall Day yesterday. Lodges in Easton, Bethlehem, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Stroudsburg were represented.

P. Randolph Brown, a past master, gave the principal address. He eulogized Prince Hall, a Negro soldier in the Revolutionary Army of Gen. George Washington.

Prince Hall, considered the founding father of Negro Masonry in the United States, was the man responsible for securing a charter from the Grand Lodge of England in 1787.

Richard P. Beville, of Stroudsburg, delivered the address of welcome and served as master of ceremonies. Other speakers were Jesse Lynch, of Stroudsburg, and Edgar Pallene, of Wilkes-Barre, both district officers. John Hillman is master of the local lodge.

Mrs. John Mitchell and Mrs. William D. Johnson, of Stroudsburg, sang a duet. Mrs. Mansfield Brooks was pianist. Carroll A. Venev and Walter E. Reives were co-chairmen of the committee on arrangements.

Killed were Leon Otis, 16, of Wymwood; Albert Dauzonier, 17, of Wymwood; and Miss Mary Nsek, 40, of Conshohocken. Otis was driving a car. The other was driven by Walter J. Kolimara, 37, of West Conshohocken. He was taken to Montgomery Hospital here suffering from a leg fracture and other injuries. Miss Nsek was riding in his automobile.

State police said the Otis car, travelling toward Philadelphia, crossed the medial strip and struck the other automobile broadside.

Correcting Juveniles

Police officers concerned about crime held a conference at Penn State University which may have far-reaching influence on the future handling of youthful offenders.

This is true because a new point of view appears to be developing with respect to corrective measures.

Dr. Francis Whaley, Penn State psychologist, indicated this view when he told the officers: "A large majority of juvenile offenders can be corrected with psychological care now available."

He insisted that "only a few psychopathic juveniles are unreachable with present knowledge and facilities."

Increased reliance on supervision by trained psychologists could reduce both the number of juveniles institutionalized and duration of institutionalization for those who may be committed.

In this connection, Judge Henry G. Sweney, of Delaware County, warned: "To send a child who has committed offenses back to his home with a mere warning is plain foolishness. But we must not think that institutionalizing them is the cheapest answer to our problems."

Significantly enough, he points out that it costs more to send a child to a corrective institution such as White-Hill Industrial School than it would cost to support a normally behaved young man or woman through college.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Making Seat Belts Mandatory

Those who have been getting their fill lately of safety sermons might be better entertained by turning to the comic pages.

We recently saw two teen-age boys hop into a red, flashy sports car. No! They did not zoom away from a dead stop into the stream of traffic at the risk of everybody's life.

We simply noticed that before the car slowly left the curb both driver and passenger had safety belts strapped around their waists. Remember when safety belts were thought of as being sissified?

Times change. Statistics show that safety belts save lives. They prevent bodies from being thrown out of the car, against the dashboard or through the windshield, all of which are good ways of getting killed.

There will probably come a time when safety belts for automobiles are made mandatory. It makes common sense.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Congress Of Evil

What is actually happening in New York is an exhibition of unbelievable impertinence.

Khrushchev, for instance, assumes that he is free to come and go in the United States without the usual visa, without a health certificate, without the consent of the Government of the United States.

His presumption is based upon his right to attend the General Assembly of the United Nations. There is no treaty to that effect. All that is required, however, is that he should have access to the United Nations buildings. Such access has been amply provided.

The psychology of Khrushchev's attitude is interesting; it is that of a conqueror who has already conquered the United States as well as other countries; it is that of a strong man who can ignore the laws that apply to other men. He objects to the unusual precautions that have been taken to guard him as a form of "house arrest."

Actually, it is excessive. Nothing in any treaty between the United States and the United Nations or any member state thereof requires the United States to guard the person of any delegate thereto. Great men have attended the United Nations.

Never before has an entire city become disrupted, its police force concentrated on a single task of protecting delegates to the United Nations. Never before has the City of New York been put to such an enormous expense because some foreigners chose to come to the city.

These are the actual facts of the situation. Added to Khrushchev is Castro who is a publicity hound of unbelievable proportions and who organized the play-of moving from an ordinary hotel to a Negro hotel in Harlem, paying as much or more for services.

This is clearly a public relations stunt. Does Castro seek by this curious step to proclaim himself a Negro leader? He and Khrushchev refused to applaud President Eisenhower's appearance at the United Nations, an ordinary courtesy extended a speaker.

The mobs that congregated, the picketing, the employment of Communist pickets, the tying up of traffic on busy streets raises the question as to whether the United Nations buildings are properly situated.

Back in 1945, when this thing was being planned, many of us were opposed to this Tower of Babel being placed in overcrowded Manhattan where traffic is congested and the streets are narrow. The United Nations should have met in the old League of Nations Palace in Geneva, Switzerland.

An effort was made to purchase an enormous site in Westchester County in New York State but such a fuss was made about a state within a state that the project was abandoned.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had the land assembled on the bank of the East River for the United Nations building. Up went a structure that resembled a glass and steel tombstone. On the streets near the United Nations a number of buildings have been erected which relate themselves to international affairs.

However, no hotel was built anywhere near the United Nations. Instead the 51 nations originally members of the United Nations scattered themselves about New York in hotels, apartment houses and so-called town houses.

If demonstrations are held for or against anything, they are always in a very crowded street in the heart of the city.

Now there are 96 member states and each one has an embassy of sorts in New York. Those attached to these delegations enjoy extraterritoriality—not only the delegates but also their employees and attendants. Extraterritoriality means that they live under their own laws.

The laws of the State of New York, the laws of the United States, the municipal ordinances of the City of New York do not apply to them. Actually, their marked automobiles regularly violate traffic regulations to the annoyance of New Yorkers who must obey them. They are parked in front of fire hydrants as though that were the right of U. N. personnel.

Now that the United Nations membership has nearly doubled, the problems arising from the United Nations, the physical and psychological problems will not only double but quadruple. The troubles we now face are not as great as the troubles we shall face, particularly as many of the delegates are unaccustomed to our type of urban life and to the need for self-restraint in a free society.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

Frank Sinatra's countless warm and generous acts rarely get into the papers. His flashes of temper are always news. His latest rharb with a newsman was spotlighted the other day.

As we have noted in the past, Sinatra doesn't believe he fights newspapermen — he thinks they fight him. There are many reasons for his quick temper: He is emotional, sensitive, subject to many pressures and is gnawed by a sense of insecurity. He has confessed: "Every thing I do is current. Every day I have to come up with a new product or I'll lose my customers. I'm always bucking the American game, he's on top now, knock him off! People root for you going up so they can knock you off later."

Only those who have reached the heights know how far the fall.

One of the more popular soap-operas involves Marilyn and Yves. Will they or won't they? The breathless decision will undoubtedly be announced soon. At any rate, the headline affair is more entertaining than their co-starring flick. Ironically, Mortland is now making a movie wherein he portrays a man who is in love with one woman — but is a pushover for another pretty doll.

Playwright Brendan Behan, whose drama opened this week, has been dramatizing himself. He delights in shocking interviewers by employing unprintable language, spouting wild opinions and confessing that he has been in jail. As a matter of fact, he wrote his first play while behind bars. However, Behan's most significant skeleton-rattler is the fact that he was once an actor. Currently, he is acting as the eccentric playwright.

The most amusing incident happened when he was being interviewed by a Herald-Trib reporter. Mrs. Behan had the audacity to interrupt by offering an innocuous comment. To which Mr. Behan thundered: "Are you being interviewed or am I?"

Actresses generally are the victims of illusions. They see themselves as they hope others will see them. Barbara Stanwyck, who is launching a new TV series, is refreshingly different. She is a no-nonsense doll who is honest and realistic.

When a reporter inquired why she hasn't been appearing in films, she frankly conceded: "Nobody has asked me. In the past three years I haven't been sent any scripts, period." Moreover, the star is candid about her age. "I'm fifty-three," she said, and added: "Age never bothered me. I always remember what Walter Huston told me: 'Baby, it's only a number.'"

Of course, the age of a star isn't important — stars are ageless.

Equire (Sept. issue) includes Cary Grant as "one of the 10 Best Dressed" and notes: "He finds the most comfortable (and functional) of all underwear to be women's nylon panties" . . .

The Pennsylvania Story

Pleased In Part

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democratic leaders, collecting their political wits following the presidential hopeful John F. Kennedy's recent bustle trip through the Keystone State are in somewhat of a post mortem quandary as to where campaign matters stand now insofar as the Pennsylvania phase is concerned.

Basically, there is an undercurrent of qualified satisfaction — but several tones lower than the conventional public expressions of exuberance emitted by top party strategists at the time and since then.

In the first place the Democratic presidential hop-skip through the state was designed not so much as a detailed and heavy vote-gathering chore as it was a quick attempt to gain a reaction sampling to gauge strategy for the remainder of the campaign.

Fundamentally it can be said Democratic leaders are fairly well pleased with what they saw from the background and sidelines as the "whistle-stopping" caravan whistled through selected sections of the state.

Their cautious optimism is based on the inescapable fact that Pennsylvania has been primarily a Republican state, and that although their intense registration drives of the past few years have paid off they know it by no means is the final answer.

Yet, considering these factors Democratic chiefs are moderate pleased with what they saw and heard—but in a quandary as to their practical effectiveness, and more importantly perhaps, exactly what to do about it now. The campaign pitch in this state until Nov. 8 will be based largely on the evaluation placed on Mr. Kennedy's bustle trip.

Here are some of the stand-out points noted by strategists:

Attendance at the whip-up rallies staged by the Kennedy entourage exceeded fondest hopes — and underscoring this was the fact that nearly all of the stops were scheduled in heretofore nominally heavy Republican strongholds.

The good turn out in some areas of school children and teenagers for the caravan brought forth some expressions of curious concern, with one caravan aide whispering: "The kids may become a deciding factor a few years hence, but we're trying to put Kennedy in this year."

Embarrassing and awkward to some extent, particularly in the case of smaller crowds, was the turn out of the quickly-spotted rank and file old pols of local organizations who in a small crowd by their almost mechanical antics soon "typed" the gathering—especially as they trotted through the hand-shaking line for a second time.

And—in some of the more heavily industrialized areas there was a feeling Mr. Kennedy lofted his words and phrases over the heads of many listeners—a contention with which this column disagrees.

However, Pennsylvania leaders in scouting upon a strategic swing-bus by the Senator from Massachusetts in the closing hours of the campaign later next month have taken these factors into consideration.

It can be said they are confident Pennsylvania can be swung into the Democratic column—a nip and tuck affair at best—but not by the optimistic majorities publicly predicted by top party aides.

The best way to go about this chore, after viewing the results of the caravan swing, has Democrats in a quandary at the moment.

The Allen-Scott Report

Threaten Rules Group

Washington — When the new Congress meets in January, the first order of business for a growing number of House Democrats will be a move to clip the wings of the powerful House Rules Committee Chairman, the 77-year-old Rep. Howard W. Smith, of Virginia.

Already, Reps. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) and Frank Thompson (D-N.J.), leaders of a 100-member Democratic study group, are mapping their strategy to curb Smith in a series of long distance phone calls to other House Democrats.

They are being encouraged by the discovery that Smith, in blocking legislation on the final day of the 86th Congress, alienated a good many members, including a number of westerners and southerners — men upon whom in the past Smith has depended to help sustain his great power.

As chairman of the Rules Committee, Smith and the conservative coalition he commands on that body exercise almost dictatorial power over the business of the House. They can hold up and have held up bills they have not liked despite the appeals of House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and despite the fact that committees originating the measures have approved them with overwhelming majorities.

In their phoning, Reps. Holifield and Thompson also learned that Smith's "failure" to support the Kennedy-Johnson ticket this year hasn't helped his already strained relations with the Democratic House Leaders.

House Majority Leader John

McCormack (D-Mass.), irked by Smith's silence on the Democratic presidential ticket is indicating his support for a proposal of Holifield to restore the 21-day rule.

Under this rule, the chairman of the originating committee can take a bill directly to the floor of the Rules Committee reports unfavorably or refuses to clear a bill within 21 days.

McCormack reports that he also would favor a plan whereby Rules Committee members would be elected by the Democratic caucus in the House. Under present rules, committee members are selected by the fifteen Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee.

Both proposals are designed to curb Smith's powers.

House Speaker Rayburn in a conversation with Thompson said that he favors some changes, but that he wants to delay any discussion on specific proposals until after the November election. Privately, Rayburn let it be known that he isn't happy with Smith's silence on the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Election Is Key — Smith's future depends in part upon the outcome of the November election.

Holifield and Thompson think they have the power now to check Smith and they say that if the Democrats win a bigger majority in November, they will surely win.

They are also counting on support to curb Smith from Senator John Kennedy if he wins the presidency.

The Holifield-Thompson group has not yet decided on just how to make the fight, but a move on the first day of the session to restore the 21-day rule is the most likely possibility.

Other proposals under consideration by the group, include:

Plans to act in caucus the day before Congress convenes to force election of eight new Democratic members to Rules Committee;

Ouster from Rules Committee of Rep. William Colmer (D Miss.), voting ally of Smith, on grounds that he supported independent slate of electors in Mississippi.

Many of the Holifield-Thompson supporters believe that the battle will be 1949 all over again.

In that year, after President Truman's unexpected reelection, there was a revolt against the power of the Rules Committee. On the first day of the 81st Congress, the 21-day rule was adopted. This curb on the Committee continued until 1951, when Southern Democrats and Republicans teamed together to repeal the rule and restore the Rules Committee's unchallenged authority.

Election Notes — Senator John Kennedy will concentrate more and more on the international situation in the last month of the campaign. He believes the UN meeting is giving many voters the idea that the Communist menace, which the Republicans said they were going to roll back, is now on the U. S. doorstep.

Vice President Nixon is telling friends that he has reserved his hardest political punches for the final two weeks of the campaign.

Campaign aides of Nixon have asked former Secretary of State James Byrnes to introduce the Vice President when he speaks next month in Columbia, South Carolina. Byrnes, a former cabinet member under Truman, supported President Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956 against Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee and has endorsed Nixon over his fellow Democrat, Sen. Kennedy.

A—(b). He vetoed 13 public bills and 11 private bills.

Reports From Congress

Lobbying Failed

By Congressional Quarterly

Washington — The biggest lobby spending in Washington this year backed legislation that was never passed by Congress, Congressional Quarterly analysis of reports shows.

The leading education lobby, for example, sank more than $77,000 in an effort to get a school-aid bill passed. The bill died in the House Rules Committee.

In all, pressure groups reported spending $1.8 million during the first six months of 1960 to influence Members of Congress. The total matched the spending figure that was reported by the lobbies in mid-1959. The year-end spending figure for 1959 was $4.1 million.

The Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act of 1946 requires all pressure groups to tell Congress at the end of each calendar quarter how much they spent to influence legislation.

Congressional Quarterly's survey spending showed that 255 groups filed spending reports during the first half of this year. About half — 126 — were organizations engaged in business or the promotion of business interests. The business groups accounted for $671,599 of the $1.8 million reported for the six-month period. Labor groups active on Capitol Hill in 1960 numbered 35 with reported expenditures of $189,341; 50 citizens groups spent $242,459; 20 farm groups spent $169,914; nine veterans' organizations put out $46,297, and 15 professional groups spent $195,081.

Education Group Leads — The National Education Assn., representing about 700,000 teachers and school administrators, topped all other pressure groups in spending in its vain drive to secure passage of a school-aid bill.

The next biggest spenders, according to the official reports,

AFL-CIO and the 1.5-million-member Teamsters Union. The AFL-CIO spent $62,881 on a multitude of legislative goals, including medical aid for the aged, a broader minimum wage law, stronger civil rights legislation and federal aid to education. The Teamsters put out $55,809, listing as principal legislative goals a series of amendments to the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959, the so-called Landrum-Griffin bill. Neither group got what it wanted on any of these measures.

The only other organization claiming expenditures of more than $30,000 was the American Farm Bureau Federation. The Farm Bureau, which represents 1.6 million farm families, said it spent $50,338. The main legislative goal of the Farm Bureau in 1960 was enactment of legislation on wheat and other farm products.

Lobby Law Weaknesses — Although 255 organizations filed pending reports, many others that were active on Capitol Hill had not turned in their spending figures as of July 20, the final deadline for submitting the reports. Those failing to do so included the American Legion, the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Still other organizations, such as the National Assn. of Manufacturers and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, do not file spending reports at all on the grounds that their principal purpose is not lobbying.

The 1946 Lobby Act was designed to regulate lobbying and individual lobbyists but did not designate anyone to enforce it. As a result, it is up to the lobbies themselves to decide how much they will tell Congress and the public about their activities.

Congressional Quiz

Presidential Veto

Presidential Veto Quiz
By Congressional Quarterly

President Eisenhower has vetoed a total of 181 bills during his eight-year term—including 12 regular vetoes and 12 pocket vetoes in 1960. This quiz tests your knowledge of the Presidential veto. Try for four correct answers.

Q—A bill is pocket vetoed if the President withholds his approval (a) for 10 days; (b) for 30 days; (c) until Congress adjourns?

A—(c). When Congress is in session, a bill becomes law without the President's signature if he does not act upon it within 10 days, excluding Sundays and holidays, from the time he gets it. After Congress adjourns at the end of a session, any bill that is neither approved or specifically vetoed within the 10 days dies, and is thus "pocket vetoed."

Q—True or false? A simple majority is required in the Senate and House of Representatives in order to override a veto?

A—False. A two-thirds vote is required in each chamber. The Constitution requires a roll-call vote.

Q—The President, after vetoing a bill, must (a) return it to the house of its origin; (b) return it to its author; (c) return it to a committee?

A—(a). He returns the bill or joint resolution within 10 days, excluding Sundays and holidays, to the first house that passed it, with a message stating his objections.

Q—Which President vetoed the highest number of bills: (a) Franklin Delano Roosevelt; (b) Harry S. Truman; (c) Dwight D. Eisenhower?

A—(a). Roosevelt (1933-45) vetoed 631 bills during his 12 years in office. Grover Cleveland is the second with 584 vetoes and Truman, third with 250 vetoes.

Q—Congress has overridden

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, nobody came up with any constructive suggestions as to how to live with the tensions created by Mr. Khrushchev, but I did hear some good excuses about why a lot of local women aren't going to house clean this Fall.

In Stroudsburg it's the Thruway and in East Stroudsburg it's the sewer that is kicking up such a fuss that the dust settles faster than they can brush it away. They are also postponing any re-decorating, slip-covering, or refurbishing until it's all over. So look for a building boom.

I was happily agreeing with them that it all seemed very logical when it suddenly occurred to me that I live so far away that neither of them give me the slightest excuse.

Of course, there are falling leaves and dropping apples but I can't honestly say that they raise much dust. Maybe I should stop looking for excuses and take out my frustrations on cobwebs, dust balls and dirty windows.

However, over the weekend I found much pleasanter ways to avoid worrying about the international situation. There was a Marge Farmer's Mexican dinner for her bridge group, for instance, and the hot tamale variety of bridge which followed.

And there was the happy situation when Ruth Brown and I had a captive audience in the editorial force and their wives to whom we showed no mercy — they had to see our whole batch of slides of Europe — every one. By the time we were finished nobody was worried about anything except staying awake long enough to get home to bed.

dance school

doorway to a happier, healthier tomorrow

Right now, it might seem years and years before your little girl takes the big step from youngster to young woman. But time has a way of slipping by and little girls have a way of growing up all too fast, too unexpectedly... often too soon to do all the things you dream you'd like to do for them.

That's why it's so important to consider this: Dance School, today—can do so much for your little girl through all her tomorrows. Through intelligently planned, carefully supervised dance instruction and exercises, your little girl's natural body development and health are strengthened and protected. She learns the thrill of using her body to create beautiful and expressive movement. She gains a polished femininity, an assured way of carrying and conducting herself that will serve her always.

Open the door to this wonderful, wonderful world of dance for your child, too. Enroll NOW! Children's classes—3 to 16 years — all types of dance. Free adult classes for members begin October 7th. Phone YMCA, or Karen Roth HA 1-8280.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff STROUBURG, PA.

Bobby Westbrook is a guest who is welcome to appear on our Wyckoff Shopper program anytime, and I only regret that when she came the other morning we had but ten extra minutes. We could have continued chatting for hours, for Bobby has a wealth of delightful stories and memories of her Summer in Italy that will keep us all enchanted for months to come. She has speaking engagements by the score scheduled for Fall and Winter, and I hope I shall hear some of them.

Before broadcast time I was somewhat jittery, for I had only ten minutes to get ready, and I was sure Bobby had received it. Then, when I was actually on the air and she had appeared, I was full of self-doubt, but Bobby arrived a mere two minutes late—a casualty of torn up roads and construction work in the Stroudsburgs. The work going on hereabouts, she confessed, is just about the most annoying she has encountered anywhere since seeing roads being built in Rome for the Olympics.

Probably the most disappointing incident of her trip was her first taste of English coffee... but she admits she had some very excellent food in England, and much enjoyed her stay there. One of the most entertaining experiences of the Italian tour was her visit to an Italian beauty salon for a new haircut. Not speaking Italian, but finding herself well able to interpret the Roman hair for pantomime, Bobby wasn't exactly sure whether she'd ever get away with less than plastic surgery... but she did. And her new bouffant hair style is extremely becoming. She is tanned, refreshed, and buoyant... and has decided there's just nothing like living the relaxed way of the Italian people, particularly when servants wait upon you, and you have no need to do anything but breathe for yourself.

It is refreshing in these troubled times to hear her talk of the great zest for living so much a part of the Italian nature... and to learn how sincerely our government is admired, and how intensely the Italians support the NATO program. This knowledge is very reassuring, particularly when one opens the newspapers morning and night to the forbidding features of the world's ill-tempered firebrands who have descended upon New York, bringing a large measure of their discontent to our very doorstep.

There is something else that persists after my talk with Bobby... a talk that continued for more than an hour over coffee in our Tea Room. There is the reminder that Italy is ageless and indestructible. If Mussolini did nothing else, he proved this very point not just by his own shameful end, but by having unearthed for the ages many of the antiquities that remind us how enduring are the ideals and achievements of man. Italy has survived much in its many centuries... but it is a glorious nation today, richer for its past. And who would concede that Americans haven't the same kind of backbones... and our government the same unquenchable devotion to its ideals?

Bobby, knowing I collect Madonnas, has brought me several beautiful reproductions... one of which shows the oldest in Rome, painted upon the walls of the catacombs of Priscilla by Christians in the second century. It is faded... but it endures, and has beauty as well as power. The very fact that it still exists is comforting, proving once again it is not easy for tide, tempest or time to destroy that which is dedicated and sincere. This might well be a thought we could adopt, and keep repeating, as we feel the need for reassurance. Thank you, Bobby.

Thinking Of Carpets? See General Flooring Co.

CARPETS for 1960 have come a long way from their forefathers which were merely a muted background for furniture and accessories, says Darrel Gehris, of General Flooring Company, 914 North Ninth St., Stroudsburg.

Whatever your taste may be in home furnishings, this year you'll find that carpets and rugs, although literally at the "bottom" of room decoration, are at the top of the home fashion picture.

A wide variety of choice in color, design and texture is available now in soft floor coverings. Colors and designs are so striking, in fact, that they often spark decoration rather than just going along with it.

Take a look, and you'll see carpets and rugs for every decorative scheme, from Oriental to Early American, from contemporary to elegant period styles. And the story only begins with style. Carpets and rugs still continue in their more familiar role, as a functional bonus in the home, contributing warmth, comfort and safety as well as beauty and style.

Stop in and see Darrel, Lou or Chet at General Flooring. See the wonderful carpets by Mohawk, Lee, Alexander Smith and Magee. All sizes from runners to Wall-To-Wall Carpeting is available. Over 300 colors and patterns to choose from in a wide variety of materials.

DELATED DINNER DILEMMAS

HOW can the hostess keep a roast rare and a meal appetizing when guests are late? The answer is with a 1960 gas range, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association says. Most of the new ranges come with a warming oven. The oven control can be turned to temperatures as low as 140 degrees.

Food does not cook at temperatures lower than 225 degrees so the roast will stay rare and just as juicy and moist as when it finished cooking. Breads, cooked vegetables and sauces can be held in the low temperature oven without overcooking. They are ready to serve the minute guests arrive.

The Paint You Apply In Minutes

SPRED SATIN the 100 per cent latex wall paint is the paint you can apply in minutes an enjoy for years. Fred Fetherman of Fetherman's paint store, 766 Main St., Stroudsburg, says, "Full bodied Spred Satin comes ready to use . . . no messy solvents or thinners to mix. It's so easy to apply with a brush or roller. Spred Satin smooths on without tedious brushing in. Spots you missed the first time can be touched up to blend without trace of a patched look."

Spred Satin is quick drying . . . it dries to the touch in 20 minutes. There is no unpleasant odor. You can use your rooms the same day you paint. All of the hundreds of lovely Spred Satin colors have an even-textured, soft glass-like beauty.

Quick clean-up is another handy feature of Spred Satin. Brushes and rollers become quickly clean and plant in mild soap and water, ready for the next time you paint. Keep a damp cloth handy for easy removal of spots on floors while you're painting.

Spred Satin can be used in any room, even kitchen and bathroom where inferior paints quickly fail. You can wash or scrub Spred Satin repeatedly with out affecting its original finish. It resists blistering, chipping, peeling and moisture problems.

Another reason why more and more women are buying and using Spred Satin, Fred Fetherman says, is that lipstick, finger smudges, even butter, crayons and other common household stains won't penetrate the tough latex film that protects the beautiful original color and finish of Spred Satin.

After 100,000 scrub strokes, Spred Satin will still retain its original beauty and color. Tests have proven this. Every gallon of Spred Satin contains over four pounds of liquid latex.

Cheap paints with less latex can't provide scrub-resistant finish.

Fetherman invites every one to see for themselves how this 100 per cent latex wall paint can take all the household abuse that cheap "bargain" paints fail to survive.

Chest Drive Supported By Governor

SUPPORT of the Monroe County Community Chest campaign and similar drives throughout the state is contained in a letter signed by Gov. David Lawrence and received here yesterday.

The letter follows: "As more than 300,000 volunteers for United Funds and Community Chests in Pennsylvania prepare for this year's campaigns, I would like to take this opportunity to commend you and your fellow citizens and to express my most earnest wishes for the success of your community's campaign.

"The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is proud to endorse and support these united community campaigns which will seek funds to carry on the work of the many vital health, welfare and recreational services in our communities and in our State.

"This fall these campaigns will be the greatest and most inclusive in the history of Pennsylvania. Through a united effort, more than $40,000,000 will be sought for services that will mean health and happiness to all our citizens in 1961.

Need For Funds

"In Pennsylvania, these essential dollars will support agencies which combat juvenile delinquency and prepare our youngsters for useful adulthood. They will support day care centers, foster homes, help neglected children and 'problem' families.

"They will help our older citizens, our chronically ill, blind and handicapped. They will also provide health and hospital services and finance research into the causes of many ailments.

"I am especially proud that these campaigns represent a united effort by the people of each community. It is an unselfish effort, led by people like you who give vastly of yourself and your time.

"I sincerely hope that all citizens of the Commonwealth, recognizing the importance of the united community campaigns, will make an all-out effort to insure their total success. With all my heart I am urging my fellow citizens to give generously to their local united campaigns which are helping to provide a greater and better Pennsylvania."

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower attended 9 a.m. services at National Presbyterian church Sunday.

He heard budget talk—about the church's $210,000 annual budget—by Asst. Atty. Gen. Perry W. Morton.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Thomas A. Stone, an assistant pastor who just returned from several years in California. He spoke on Christian education, linking it to the miracle in which Christ turned water into wine at the wedding feast.

Dr. Stone said those who serve the church in small and seemingly unimportant ways serve Christ as the servants did who filled the jars with water before He performed His miracle.

Helm Refutes Charge That U.S. Is Second-Rate Power

STATE REP. W. STUART HELM of Armstrong County spoke to approximately 150 Republicans at a fund raising dinner Friday night at Tannersville Inn. Helm is from Kittanning.

Answering a charge he said was made by leading Democrats that the United States is a second-rate power, Helm said that to become "second rate," the United States would have to scrap one-half of its steel industry; wreck two-thirds of its hydro-electric production machinery; burn off 90 percent of its natural gas production; rip up 14 of every 15 miles of highways; seal off two-thirds of its oil production; rip up two of every three miles of railroad tracks; sink eight out of every nine merchant ships; scrap 19 out of 20 cars; destroy 80 percent of all American housing and crowd 180,000,000 people into the 20 percent remaining and scrap the constitution and "freedom under God."

Helm was introduced by Mrs. Mary Fontanella, vice chairman of the Monroe County Republican Committee, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Other speakers were Hanford L. Cleveland, candidate for the House of Representatives from Monroe County, and Montgomery F. Crowe, former state senator.

A dance with music provided by the Rudi Ainspach trio followed the meeting.

Jews Urge Fair Housing Practice Law

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's Legislature was urged Sunday by a Jewish group to move swiftly in its next session to pass a fair housing practices law.

A resolution to that effect was adopted unanimously at the closing session of a two-day meeting of the Pennsylvania Area Conference of the American Jewish Committee.

The committee called on the lawmakers to pass legislation "which will effectively safeguard the rights of Pennsylvania citizens to secure housing regardless of race, color, creed or national origin."

The resolution was endorsed by delegates from 10 cities. They are: Allentown, Kingston, Harrisburg, Wilkes-Barre, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Beaver Falls, Easton, Danville and Erie.

Hillard Kreimer of Pittsburgh and Herbert Salus Jr. of Philadelphia sponsored the resolution.

A fair housing bill passed the Democratic-controlled House by a 131-66 vote in the 1959 session. But the measure never got out of committee in the Republican-controlled Senate.

Gov. Lawrence already has served notice that his administration will try and get a similar bill passed in the 1961 session which convenes in January.

In a speech to the Jewish group Saturday night, Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern deplored introduction of the religious issue in the presidential campaign.

She said that to appraise a candidate's qualifications for high office solely on the basis of what church he attends is a violation of civil rights.

Miss Alpern singled out the group of Protestant clergymen which issued a statement several weeks ago saying that a Roman Catholic would be under much pressure from the church's hierarchy if he were elected president.

"When ministers, spiritual leaders, deny civil rights, democracy is floundering," said the attorney general.

Dear Abby

Kick Over The Traces

Dear Abby: The girl I go with has been putting the pressure on me to marry her. I can't even think of marriage until I finish college and get a job, but she keeps talking about "our home" and "our children."

I like her more than any other girl I've ever gone with, but I haven't gone with many. When she tells me how much she loves me, I feel like a heel.

Her home life isn't very happy and she can't wait to get away from her parents. She loves my parents and they like her, but they don't want to see me married yet. How can I chill her without throwing her into a tailspin?

PRESSURE

Dear Pressured: A frank talk is long overdue. Tell her you think it is unfair to ask her to wait indefinitely for you, so you think you should both start dating others. (Then prove you aren't bluffing by doing so immediately. She'll follow suit.) When a young man dates one girl exclusively, he usually gives her so much rope he soon finds himself roped in.

Dear Abby: Isn't there a law against bigamy? There is a

Chess Champion Caught In Slump

ASPIRANTS for the crown of Champion Harold James of the Stroudsburg Chess Club caught him in a bad slump at the Thursday night competitions and James suffered two bad defeats.

The first was at the hands of James Heatherington of East Stroudsburg, recognized as the leading championship contender. President John M. Price, top man in the second division, gave James his other trouncing.

Louis Mondelle of East Stroudsburg, took all the joy out of Price's victory, however, beating him decisively in a long game.

The winner in that contest then fell a victim to William P. Deering, who passed on to inflict a crushing defeat on Earl Weiss of Broad St., considered third highest contender for James' crown.

Weiss took revenge on Mitchell Stackhouse of W. Main St., beating him in a long stubborn contest.

this, knowing he was lonesome? LONESOME BUT CAREFUL

Dear Lonesome: Since you had doubts about "how it would look," you used good judgment. His loneliness is acute — yours is chronic. The combination could be unhealthy.

Confidential To Suspicious Husband: Your wife could certainly be telling you the truth. Some women do set their hair with beer!

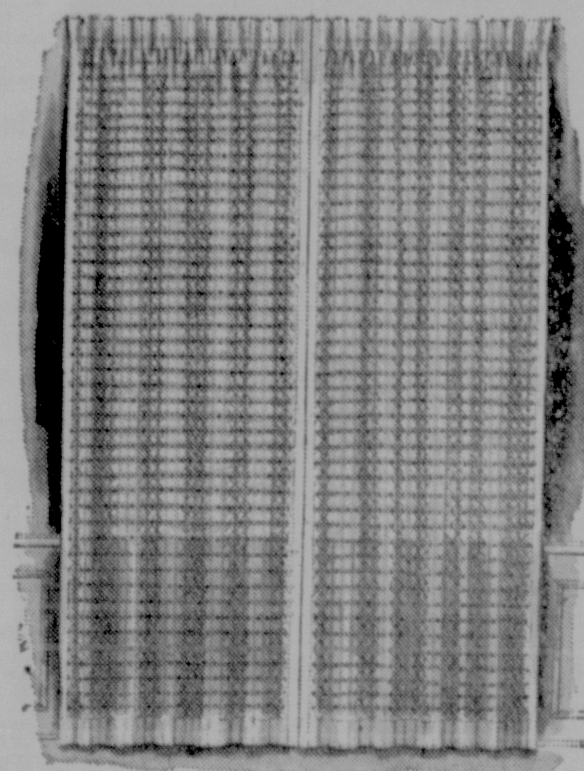

Dear Neighbors: There is indeed a law against bigamy, and since this man makes no secret of it, surely both "wives" should have heard about it by now. If he has two "wives," it's up to them to bring him to justice. If you want to "do something about it" — see your district attorney or lawyer about the proper legal procedure.

Dear Abby: I am a widowed lady, own my own home and live in a friendly neighborhood. At present a neighbor is alone, as his wife is out of town. He invited me to his house for morning coffee, I refused, as he was alone and I felt it wouldn't look right. Then he asked if he could come to my place. I said no. Was I wrong in acting like
